Ignoring county plan undermines unitiesyste

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Proponents of the unit system of county government stated dissatisfaction with road operations here may stem from management failure.

Concerning county expenditures, Lincoln Warren, senior vice-president of the Mississippi Economic Council (MEC) commented, "Because those figures do not square with the other counties we studied. The monies spent (in Hancock under the unit system) to improve roads, such as gravel, asphalt, etc., actually decreased. You may wish to look at the way your resources are being managed today under this system."

Warren, one of five speakers at a public forum sponsored by the Hancock Chamber of Commerce. The Unit System vs. The Beat System, What are the facts?," advocated MEC support of road administration as a unit at county level.

Others, present were Hancock District 2 Supervisor Adolph "Dolph" Keller", Travis Alford, president of the Missis-

Recycling: a good idea, but harder than ever in Hancock County.

Those recycling glass, paper and plastic must now cart their recyclables to Biloxi to sell them.

The Waveland buy-back outlet for Gulf Coast Recycling has been closed for some months, and a representative of the nonprofit company said there are no plans to reopen, as there was not enough participation to justify operating the center.

The closest Gulf Coast Recycling buy-back center is on Pass Road in Biloxi behind Bay Vista fire station.

Reynolds Recycling, which specializes in aluminum, also has ceased collection in the county. Again, according to a company official, the reason is that the company wasn't receiving enough volume to justify keeping the collection trailer in Waveland.

The nearest one is in Gulfport, on Hwy. 49 across from West Building Supply. The scene is not totally desol-

"I have tried to explain this to Mr. Weidman," she said. "Nothing will be passed until an ordinance is discussed and adopted, and there is no ordinance."

somewhere."

Cheek also said that supervisor board president Mike Ladner was told during an August 25 visit to the center that the care center was beginning a refinancing process. The refinancing was to have included both the care center's balloon payment (which was due November 30, 1991) and a 60-bed nursing home that residential care center owner John Jacobsen wants to open.

However, Cheek said, the company has decided to go to its second option, which is to refinance the care center independent of the nursing home, since the proposed facility's certificate of need is being challenged in court by another nursing home owner.

Cheek presented the board a check for $4,800 to bring the payments current to this month, and proposed that the care center and the county work together to set up a monthly bank draft of $3,000 from the care center's checking account to the county.

The board agreed to consider the proposal, and tabled it until the supervisors' October 16 recess meeting. The supervisors also agreed to hold the foreclosure notice advertisement in abeyance until that meeting.

Gex suggested that he may be able to restructure the care center's payments - currently about $1,600 a month - so that the care center will be paying on the principal of the mortgage as well as the interest. Since Cheek proposed paying $3,000 a month, Gex said, the restructured payments should benefit all concerned.

The supervisors said they had no objection to restructuring the payments, if it can be

The Monday meeting between Cheek and the supervisors was precipitated by a unanimous vote at the board's last September meeting to foreclose on the care center. Although the supervisors said last week they did not want to foreclose, they felt they needed to do something.

The center currently has filled all 37 of its rooms. Cheek told the board Monday that the center is finally breaking even financially, and he doesn't foresee any future problems with making the payments on the

to have a purchase order.

"There will still have to be a piece of paper, transmitted for every purchase up to $100. Over $100 they go through a centralized purchasing department; that will remain the same."

"The only difference between now and the old beat system is supervisors can no longer buy or requisition anything. According to Touart, a return to the beat system would leave supervisors with direct responsibility for the hiring, firing and daily activities of their individual road departments and crews. He concluded, "The main thing you will be voting on is whether to go back to where your supervisor will represent you in your area and have a dayto-day hands on affect on the road program." Speaking of the present unit system, Touart said, road operations are conducted by a road manager and county administrator. In Hancock County the administrator is Chancery Clerk Michael Necaise, who is paid additional compensation as permitted under state law. According to Warren, the administrator has no control over road work designations, assisting in financial planning areas

The road manager is the sole road and bridge works supervisor. He is directed by a county plan, which is approved by the board of supervisors in February of every year. At any time the plan can be amended by the board to include or prioritize work needs. It is through this plan that the supervisors direct the road manager or superintendent.

Touart said, "No, you cannot call your supervisor on the phone and have you street repaired immediately. But, vour supervisor can direct that street be included in the county

During discussion Keller admitted to not having studied the present four-year county plan.

Keller, an advocate of the beat system, stated, "In six years not one road in Hancock County has been blacktopped.: In 1985, Beat 2 alone received

Make A To V Our Classifieds over six miles of blacktopping."
Hancock County has 540 miles of roads, of which 306 are paved.

Touart commented, "Today there are 48 unit system counties and 22 who have this issue on their ballot. We expect 12 to return to the beat system.

The primary reason that a lot of counties are going back to the beat system, is because smaller counties can't afford a county administrator and a full time road manager."

He said the unit system is working for Jackson County, where they have adapted the system to fit the needs of the area.

There, Touart said, two districts are within city limits and three are within rural areas.

The county returns all funds for road maintenance from the two city districts to the three rural areas where three barns have been established to serve the separate areas. He suggested the flexibility of the unit system be adjusted to meet the needs of the area. Warren concluded his presentation with the question,

QUOTABLE QUOTES"

Ellis C. Cuevas

Area high school football teams begin the second half of the season Friday night. Midway in the season Bay High's record is 4-1, Hancock High's 3-2 and St. Stanislaus' 0-5.

The Tigers, in the best start in many years after an impressive 49-6 victory over Purvis last week, will celebrate homecoming Friday night by hosting Vancleave.

Head coach Rocky Gaudin has worked very hard the past three seasons building a good football program at Bay High and the dividends are showing now.

One can get too confident and be caught sleeping, as Vancleave, with a 2-4 record, could really play a spoiler for Bay High's homecoming.

I am sure Rocky will have the Tigers roaring to go Friday night in J.D. McCullouch Stadium at 7:30 p.m.

Remember, this is Bay High's homecoming, so you need to get to the stadium early if you expect a good Hancock High will be trying to get back on the right track Friday night when the Hawks host Pearl River Central.

Head coach Irvin Favre's Hawks over the years have really been in some serious battles with Pearl River Central and this year's game should not be any different.

Pearl River Central has an impressive 4-1 record this season and should bring it to the Hawks.

Hancock can take Pearl River Central with a mistake-free game and every member of the Hawk squad giving a 100% effort.

An improving St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaw squad will be seeking victory number one of the season Friday night when they travel to Long Beach.

The Bearcats are hungry for a victory, too, so the Rocks need to be ready for a good battle Friday.

Rock head coach Ken Lyons and staff has been working diligently with a very young squad this season, and their efforts are showing each week.

Last week against Picayune, Stanislaus had a good showing and played a close game. Two turnovers were costly and could have changed the outcome of the score.

If the momentum continues, and Stanislaus ended the game last week with a score as the clock ran out and then added a two-point conversion, SSC could register victory number one of the season.

Your local team players need your support in the stands. They play much better when they see their parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, cousins, friends and school supporters in the stands.

Remember, kickoffs are at 7:30 p.m.

See you at the game.

I received a personalized copy of a book on the history of the First Presbyterian Church of Bay St. Louis from author Ed Ling this week.

Ling, an attorney, a longtime resident of Waveland and government official at Stennis Space Center, now resides with his wife in Pass Christian.

The author's latest edition deals with a brief history of Bay St. Louis and then goes into detail on the history of the city's Presbyterian Church.

The book is published by Ling and printed by Dolphin Press in Long Beach.

Ed has done a fine job on this publication, and I can tell you one thing, there are many names mentioned in the community that I know very well.

Congratulations to Ed on a very fine publication.

I can remember many years ago, (1946) when I was a youngster and a new couple moved into the city of Waveland at the intersection of Railroad (Central) Avenue and the Sobral (Terrace).

Before long, an ice cream parlor opened in the front of the building and it became one of the most popular spots in Waveland.

The owners of this enterprise were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gleim.

A few years later, they moved their business to Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis, (Mary's Eatery) under the name of Sunshine Ice Cream Parlor. The Gleims were very well liked in the community and very good business people. Ice cream was their specialty, and I can still remember the flavor of their cherry vanilla. By the way, they made their own ice cream. As a youngster, I as well as hundreds of others waited patiently along the streets of Waveland for the Sunshine Ice Parlor Wagon to pass, so we could purchase an ice cream cone or ice cream sandwich.

Many years later the couple retired to their Waveland home and soon Mr. Gleim died. Mrs. Gleim and her sister, Mrs. Lila Greenfield, continued residing in Wayeland until Mrs. Greenfield's death in 1986.

As a community servant, Mrs. Gleim was the manager and founder of the Waveland Hospitality Station, This came into being when Interstate 10 was opened and the old truck scales closed on the outskirts of Waveland. The little Waveland Hospitality Station is still in operation. Mrs. Gleim was an also active worker in her church, the Bay-Waveland Garden Club and the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre.

Upon the death of her sister, Mrs. Gleim moved to live with her daughter in New Jersey.

Last week at an age of 93, Mrs. Gleim died. Shelived a long and productive life, and was a person managof us in Blancock County will long remember. Malfcock county

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Why are officials refusing to take calls?

To the Editor,

"May I say who's calling?" After a two-minute pause you know you're in trouble. I can't get through. Can you?

Should a local government office have to know who you are before your elected official accepts your call? We put them there didn't we? Why the reluctance to talk to us? I am only a resident of four years but have tried for over two months to get a response from Ma Chevas and/or get through to the mayor. In fact, I'll bet you that Ms. Cuevas cannot remember (in my opinion) her uninteresting conversation and curt replies.

But she has much time to be off to meetings, vacation, etc.

It does seem that our elected and appointed officials seem to always forget who pays their salaries and puts them there in the first place. Have you tried city hall lately? If so, are you, too, a persona non-grata who receives that repulsive, "May I say who's calling?" Why is it our officials are afraid to talk to us?

Unit system should be retained here

Dear Editor,

In a Times Picayune article dated Sept. 30, it told of a county supervisor from Rankin County, who was convicted and sentenced to 28 months imprisonment for accepting a bribe from an equipment dealer representative wanting a county contract.

I am sure the voters of Hancock County will recall the arrest and conviction of several Hancock supervisors as well as dozens of other supervisors throughout our state that led to the vote for our present unit system.

In the upcoming election, Hancock County voters are to vote to continue the present unit system as was voted for in 1988 or vote to revert back to the beat system.

It is my understanding that Mr. Dolph Kellar resigned as supervisor after being defeated five years ago and was elected again last election, and Mr.

Howard Lizana was elected to his first term. They both have advocated a change back to the antiquated beat system.

I would like to refer to our supervisors as well to the voters to the Sun Herald article of Sept. 30, in which The Mississippi Economic Council states the unit system works. Under the unit system, a county's road and maintenance is supervised by a manager hired by supervisors and funded county wide. Under the beat system, supervisors control road work and funding in their districts.

The article further states that even in counties where supervisors appear to have attempted to undermine the unit system, there have been improvements in road managements,

Please consider this proposition carefully and vote to retain the present unit system.

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

Building a better mailbox

The effort to build a better mousetrap has given American industry its spark since long before Edison invented the light bulb. But government's effort to mandate better mousetraps is stifling American enterprise and costing people jobs.

Many in Washington think that the answer to every problem is more government control through regulation and mandates. I do not agree.

A perfect example of government mandates occurred earlier this year when the Postal Service arbitrarily decided to "refine" the specifications for the standard curbside mailbox. The old mailbox design has been just fine for years, but suddenly some engineer at the Postal Service decided he could build a better mailbox.

The Postal Service decided the ridges inside the boxes were not high, narrow nor numerous enough and that the inscription 'Postmaster General" should be larger. They also decided the flag on the box should be moved about a half-inch and that the thumb tag on top of the box should be removed.

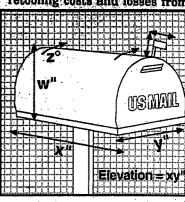

These are nice enhancements I'm sure, but hardly worth shutting down mailbox manufacturers throughout America. The old design certainly did not threaten anyone's safety or It was an arbitrary decision and one that I've been fighting to reverse for months. Twenty-seven mailbox manufacturers in Mississippi and other states across the nation received cease and desist orders that instructed them to shut down immediately and stay shut down until they could pro-duce this Postal Service-mandated "better" mailbox.

This left companies with retooling costs and losses from plant closings amounting to thousands of dollars for each plant. Is this good and responsible government? Does this help the economy and the ability of entrepreneurs to exercise the American spirit?

Of course it doesn't. Americans are over-regulated, overcontrolled, over-taxes and overgoverned.

The solution to combat this can be found in our history. America was founded on a government dedicated to freedom, individual rights and opportunities which allow everyone the unhampered chance to build a better mousetrap. That is something I stand for, and it's something I will try to win back for Mississippians and Americans.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

The battle lines are drawn. On November 3, voters in 23 counties will pull the lever on the county unit system. Which way they pull the lever—either to keep the units system or return to the wasteful beat system—is of great importance to those who value efficient government and improved roads.

The unit system works, according to a study of 10 counties by a former deputy state auditor for the Mississippi Economic Council.

The study concludes that where the unit system was given a chance to succeed by county supervisors, taxpayers are seeing more of their money going into roads and less of it going into personnel and equipment repair costs. They are seeing more money used for main-tenance of bridges and less used for upkeep of separate county barns.

In the counties studied where the unit system has been "sabotaged" by supervisors, taxpayers are on the receiving end of bad roads and worse information. The unit system, supervisors say, is to blame. Review of county road department records, public records, tells a different story—outright mis-management of tax resources, sacrificing an improved county road system.

One item not mentioned in the battle is the cost of returning to the beat system, where there is a road department in each of the five supervisors' districts.

What is the cost of purchasing new equipment for each beat, the cost of opening a new county barn in each beat, the cost of hiring additional personnel for road crews in each beat? Can counties afford these costs?

Do taxpayers want to see their money diluted further, or do they want it used on a countywide road and bridge system?

The battle lines are drawn for Nov. 3.

Felicity

She claimed that she, her children and neighbors all have been asked by motorists on Felicity where Casino Magic is located, despite signs pointing out its location, and despite efforts to keep casino visitors off the street altogether.

Another point of contention is police monitoring of the area. Carr said, "Over 40 children live on Felicity Street from Dunbar to the last house. Nearly that many live in Hancock Heights and adjoining streets and neighborhoods, and numerous people have grandchildren and other friends and relatives who visit on a regular basis.

We should not be subjected to police scrutiny to enter and exit our street, and what of our friends and relatives who have been denied access? Do we have to turn in tag or driver's license numbers to police so we may have visitors?"

many 5- to 8-year-olds must walk to North Bay Elementary School because, according to state law, they live too close to the school to be allowed to ride the bus. Since there are no sidewalks in that area, she said, the children must walk on the side of the street.

"At this point the policemen and women have been given orders to allow selected casino traffic to use Felicity Street. upon investigation, residents were told that the stretch limousine could not negotiate the turns on Blue Meadow

"How did the large trucks and other construction vehicles manage all those months? How do school buses do it twice a

"What will happen with the tour buses begin to pour in? Who determines which vehicles are eligible to use this 17-foot, nine-inch-wide throughway?" She told the Council they had three choices: do nothing, which she claimed would jeopardize the lives of children on the She also pointed out that retreet erect thips my block-any 5- to 8-year-olds must ade, which would accommodate those who fear being shut off from Joe's Bayou Road as an escape route in the event of a disaster; or make Felicity a dead-end.

We urge — no, I and the more than 100 signers of this petition demand — that you remember as elected officials your first responsibility is to the long-time residents and registered voters of this community. Don't ignore this sworn duty. Take action. Close Felicity Street to through traffic and protect the greatest asset of this city — our children."

Benvenutti followed Carr with a somewhat gentler approach. She thanked the Council on behalf of the residents for the work that has been done so far — the posting of speed limit and "No truck route" signs, the stationing of police monitors, the efforts to discourage the use of Felicity by casino visitors.

However, she reasserted Carrs expression of concern for the safety of the neighborhood children.

"What scares us is the offchance that someone might come out of there drinking" and injure or kill a child, she said.

While many of the residents present at the meeting, including licensed foster home owner James Johnston, agreed with Carr and Benyenutti, several held other views.

Dan Welch said he thought making Felicity a dead-end would lead to closing off other

"If you close Felicity, then you'll have to close Corinth, then another and another, and pretty soon you'll have every street in the city closed."

A woman, a resident of Joe's Bayou Road, said she doesn't want to see Felicity closed. "We've put up with the banging and clanging and traffic for close to a year now, and I said Give it time and it'll settle down, and it has. We don't have nearly the traffic through there at night that we used to."

The Council heard all the residents' comments, then invited them to aftend a 6:30 p.m. workshop October 13.

One resident had asked the mayor's view, since city attorney John Scafide said the mayor would make any decision short of abandoning the street, but other residents spoke immediately afterward, and the mayor didn't answer.

When asked after the meeting, Mayor Eddie Favre com-mented, "As far as I'm con-cerned, the traffic problem has been solved, without closing the street. If we find the problem coming up again, we will again try to resolve it without closing the street. If we cannot resolve it that way, we will consider closing the street."

Shoreline residents call roads hazardous

BY TRACI BONNEY

Several Shoreline Park residents expressed their anger and concern Monday over the road conditions in their subdivision and the hazards those roads

Johnny Gryner and a number of other Texas Street residents, as well as Lois Forest of 7th Street and Patricia Lepine of 1st and Lake on the west side of the subdivision, told the supervisors that they are worried about the dangers when the subdivision's roads are covered by high tide water or rainwater. Gryner said that he and his neighbors have asked for four years that something be done to improve the roads so they are driveable even when water is onthem, but have seen no real improvements. He told the board that many Texas Street residents can't leave their houses to go to work if the street is flooded, and they worry that emergency vehicles can't get in to give assistance or transport someone to the hospital. Gryner told the supervisors that the main need at this point is a higher road bed, so that the residents can drive down the street even when water is on it.

The half-dozen people present at the supervisors' meeting agreed with Gryner's comments, and said they were angry that their tax money didn't seem to be doing them much good as far as road maintenance was concerned.

"Our roads are nothing but mud now," one man said. Another resident told the supervisors that more than one person in the subdivision has been in medical danger because the ambulance could not drive on the street.

Road superintendent Sam Cuevas told the residents and the supervisors that road crews have been out to Texas Street several times with gravel to grade the road.

"It's a matter of building up the road bed," he commented.

"It's a long process."

After Gryner spoke, Forest stood and asked the board what plan the county has for road improvements. She said she understood there was a plan, and she would like to know what it was.

She also told the supervisors that she has no trouble with access to her property yet, but she believes the time is coming when access will be a problem.

Forest added that street name duplication is a problem already; the ambulance drivers don't know which 7th Street to go to when an emergency is reported.

According to a county map, Bay St. Louis has a 7th Street, which crosses into the Waveland city limits a short distance. Pearlington also has a 7th Street; and three separate stretches of road in Shoreline Park have that name. In addition, Pearlington and Shoreline Park each have a 7th Avenue.

Board attorney Gerald Gex told those attending the meeting that as far as road maintenance is concerned, the supervisors' only authority under the unit system of government is to hire and fire the road superintendent.

Under state law, they can't tell him how to do his job," he explained.

Gex also said that Tax Assessor/Collector Eddie Murtagh is working through the Emergency 911 system to resolve the problem of street name duplication.

The SAM representative said aluminum cans are being bought for 27 cents a pound right now, and steel cans (such as are used for canned vegetables and fruit) are going at a penny a pound. She asked those bringing cans in for recycling to rinse them out first.

Southern Scrap Xpress, located in the National store parking lot in Waveland, recycles aluminum cans and copper.

Only one section of the county has curbside recycling service. Diamondhead residents recycle through their waste collection company, Waste Management.

As a Senator, I Will...

Introduce Legislation to protect the Small Business Person in Mississippi.

I feel like anyone who holds a retail license in Mississipi, should have the opportunity to purchase supplies at the same price as the big businesses

It is unfair for small businesses to compete with larger businesses, when they can sell at a cheaper price than the small business person can purchase the item.

A few examples are; milk, a small business pays some $2.39 a gal. wholesale, while larger stores sell milk at about $2.35 a gallon - soft drinks, a case wholesale is $9.50, and at times one can buy a case for $6 or less from a big store.

This is unfair to the small business person and the consumer.

As a State Senator, I will introduce Legislation that will be fair and equal for the small business person.

If gaming is ever allowed on land, I will introduce Legislation that would require at least five years' residency in said county, before a license could be issued to a person.

This will give our local people an opportunity, just as the liquor laws have.

Plans formed to add lane, turn lane on Aloha Drive

BY TRACI BONNEY

The project is several months from completion, but by this time next year, Diamondhead drivers may find at least part of their route less congested.

A county plan is in motion to add a third 12-foot lane, a turn lane and subsurface drainage to Aloha Drive in the area of Gex Drive, where Peoples and Merchants banks both have offices. County engineer Larry Seal said the plans for the State Aid road project were approved, but three property owners requested minor changes in relation to their driveway accesses to the street.

Seal said those changes have been made, and the county is in the process of obtaining the final rights of way.

"It should take about six months to complete, once the contract is awarded," he commented. "However, the contractor may need to wait until next March to start, because it can be difficult to work in the winter, with the rains and the cold

"You see, we have to do this project with people still using the road, so we have to accommodate the traffic while the work is going on. That can be dangerous, especially in wet weather."

The project was originall estimated at around $300,000, but it may cost more now, he added. All engineering and construction costs will be paid by the state, while right of way acquisitions and utility relocations must be paid for by the

The Reverend Linda L. Lowry, rector of St. Thomas, will conduct a special service including a general blessing after which pets may be brought forward individually to receive a personal blessing. Animals must be on a leash or in a carrier.

Families who have no pet to be blessed, or who choose not to bring a pet, are invited to bring the children to see the animals and observe the blessing. Refreshments will be served after the service.

Page places in state Senior Golf Championships

James Page of Diamondhead was second net winner in the Grand Masters (age 70 and over) division of the Mississippi Golf Association's State Senior Golf Championships, which were held last weekend at the Cardinal Course in Diamondhead.

Page had a three-day total of 206, only two strokes more than Grand Masters net winner Fred Klyce of Batesville.

The two tournaments held over the weekend both attracted record fields, with 82 players competing in the Super Seniors division and 42 in the Grand Masters.

Winners of the Diamondhead

Final round, Hugh and Mir-

Community Center hosts Hinde photograph exhibit

On Monday evening, the Diamondhead Community Center hosted South African wildlife photographer Gerald Hinde as he showed his fine African bush photographs and distributed his new book, The Original Gamedrive.

New Diamondhead art director Skip Alphonso explained that he had met Mr. Hinde on a business trip to South Africa and helped to arrange his American debut. The stirring photographs of elephants, leopards, lions and other southern African wildlife drew critical praise from the large number of attendees and Mr. Hinde's book was sold out within minutes of the show's opening. "I was thrilled," said Hinde. "It seemed to be very well accepted."

Hinde does much of his work in the Mala Mala game reserve in South Africa and in Botswana. He has been doing lion research for six years. His new book is back ordered, but will soon be available through the studio of Diamondhead photographer Luis Cordova. He may be reached at 255-3089. Asked what he thought of the United States so far, Mr. Hinde quipped, "If you guys had lions and leopards here, I'd definitely love to stay!"

Bay AL Cowboys defeat Biloxi Raiders

The Bay St. Louis American Legion 11-and-12-year-old Cowboys defeated the Biloxi Raiders Saturday 24-18.

The Cowboys had to come from behind as the Raiders dominated play in the first half. Biloxi led 18-0 and the game looked one-sided, until the Cowboys' offense took control and scored their first touchdown.

Justin Wadsworth and Robbie Henderson set up the TD with their running abilities; Tony Benton made the score. Ronald Brown shot a halfback pass to Jamie Cuevas to score the extra point.

The second half was dominated by the Cowboys as the defense dug in and shut down the Raiders, not allowing any Biloxi scoring.

The Cowboys' other touchdowns were scored by Robbie Henderson; extra points were scored by Stephen Peterman and Jamie Cuevas.

College Football Highlights

For October 10

Kansas and Kansas State aren't quite ready to change things from the Big Three in the Big Eight, Colorado, Nebras-ka and Oklahoma, to the Big Five. However, their days of being conference doormats may be in the past tense. The Jaykawks, 6-5 last fall, blew out both Oregon State (49-20) and Tulsa (40-7), but then ran into difficulty with California, losing 27-23. The Wildcats, 7-4 in '91, beat both Montana and Temple in their first two games. This week the two meet in Lawrence and it could be as close as Kansas' 16-22 win over K-State last fall. We're picking Kansas.

Miami, still recovering from the effects of its battle with Florida State last week, goes on the road this week to face Penn State. The hurricanes beat the Lions last fall, but only by 6 points, 26-20, and Miami was playing at home. Penn State has had things very much its own way so far this season and other than just edging Cincinnati 24-20 in its opener, it has scored impressive wins. The Nittanies were 10-2 last fall. their only other loss being to Southern California. Good upset possibility-Penn State.

Forecasting percentage through games of Saturday, Sept. 26: 562 right and 202 wrong for a .736 average.

No team came closer to upsetting Washington last fall then California. During the regular 1991 season, the undefeated Huskies rolled over their opposition by an average of 33 points. They beat the Bears by seven, 245-17. California was 9-2 last season, but was surprisingly chased out of the stadium on opening day this year by Purdue, 41-14. The Bears came back to upset Kansas two weeks ago. Against Washington, California wil be the underdog.

Texas upset Oklahoma 10-7 in their traditional match-up last fall in Dallas. The Longhorns, losers to Mississippi State and Syracuse in their first two 1992 outings, will have trouble against the Sooners this week. Oklahoma favored.

NFL Forecast for Sunday and Monday, Oct. 11-12

Buffalo, 31-L. A. Raiders, 10 In 1991 meeting, Raiders led 27-14 going into 4th quarter. Bills scored 13 points in final quarter to send game into OT. Buffalo's Scott Norwood kicked FG to win 30-27. Dallas, 24—Seattle, 10

Cowboys hold 3-1 series lead vs Seahawks, Seattle winning last get-together in 1986, 31-14. Dallas coming off Monday nite contest against Eagles. Seattle 1-3 in first 4 games.

Houston, 28—Cincinnati, 13

In two huge wins over Bengals last fall, Oiler QB Warren Moon passed for grand total of 604 yards, completing 30 of 44 passes, four for TDs. Houston won 30-7, 35-3... repeat?

Miami, 24—Atlanta, 23
Falcons won last match-up between these two—in 1986, Dolphins lead short series 4-1. Atlanta lost to Bears two weeks ago in shoot-out, 41-31. Miami just to bears two weeks ago in shoot-out, 41-31. Miami just nipped Seattle 19-17.

New Orleans, 27—L. A. Rams, 10
Rams lost 3rd and 4th straight to Saints last season, being shut down in first meeting, 120 total yards, 24-7. Saint QB

Steve Walsh, 17 of 33 passes, led N.O. to second 24-17 win. New York Giants, 23—Phoenix, 14
Giants have beaten Cards 12 of last 14 times. In 1st game in '91, NY held 17-3 halftime lead, Cards never threatening in 20-9 loss; second game, almost repeat, 21-13 Phoenix loss.

New York Jets, 23—Indianapolis, 17

Colts lost 8th straight of '91 season in match-up with Jets, Indy managing two FGs in 17-6 loss. Colts scored 21 points in 3rd quarter in second meeting, beating New York 28-27. Philadelphia, 30—Kansas City, 27 History of meetings between these two makes for great trivia question-how many have there been? Just one! Eagles edged Chiefs 21-20 in '72, only time they've met. Eagles win

Pittsburgh, 20-Cleveland, 13 Browns nipped Steelers in first meeting last fall 17-14, Cleveland QB Bernie Kosar completing 21 of 29 passes. In final game of season, Pitt whipped Browns 17-10 to even series.

San Francisco, 31—New England, 7

49ers hold 6-1 series lead, Pats last victory coming back in 1975. Three years ago, 49er replacement QB Steve Young threw three TD passes, sparking S.F. to 37-20 win over Pats.

Washington, 17-Denver 10

(Monday)In last encounter in 1986, Redskins hosted AFC West—leading Broncos in Monday nite game. Denver improved its record to 9-2, holding Washington to just 10 points in 14-10 victory, (Chicago, Detroit, Green Bay, Minnesota, San Diego and Tampa Bay not scheduled)

Loren Crow

Crow, Lavoie named merit semifinalists

Loren Crow, son of Jerry Crow of Salem and Susan Crow of Diamondhead, and Seth Lavoie, son of Dennis and Dawn Lavoie of Diamondhead, have been designated semifinalists in the 1993 competition for National Merit Scholarships, Both are seniors at Hancock High School.

To qualify as a finalist, a semifinalist must have an outstanding academic record; be recommended by the school principal; submit SAT scores that confirm his or her PSAT/ NMSQT performance; and com-plete a detailed scholarship application that includes a self description and information about scholastic attainments, school and community activities, and educational plans and goals.

About 90 percent of the semifinalists are expected to become finalists. The selection of award recipients will be based on candidates' abilities, accomplishments, and personal qualities.

Peterson attends young cattlemen's conference

Hancock County resident Darrin Peterson was one of 20 selected participants in the second annual Mississippi Young Cattlemen's Leadership Conference and Tour recently. Participants represented the future leaders of the cattle industry in Mississippi and were from all areas of the state.

Topics addressed included overviews of the Mississippi Cattlemen's Association, Mississippi Cattle Industry Board and each of these organizations involvement in the cattle industry. Also discussed were issues affecting the cattle industry and the establishment of agricultural financial records.

Library offers 'Democracy in America' literature

The County Library System Vice-Presidential candidates. has available numerous recommended books that coordinate with CNN's Democracy in America series airing each through Oct. 25 from 9 to 10 p.m., CST, according to Prima Plauche', library director.

The first three parts of the series titled "The Nation's Agenda," consider how the United States can rebuild what was once known as the American Dream.

The second three, under the title. "The Battle to Lead," examine the character, the record, and the leadership qualifica-tions of the Presidential and

Hurricane Andrew donations

CCD students in grades four-six at Our Lady of the Gulf recently collected school supplies for fellow students who were victims of Hurricane Andrew in Louisiana. The collection was held September 27 at Bay Catholic Elementary School, and students were asked to donate school supply items of their choice. Among those participating in the service project were (from left):

Lamier; back row - Michael Mareno and Eric Tenorio.

Plauche' points out that public libraries, being one of the most democratic institutions in America hope to encourage and educate citizens to become pert of the democratic process. 'Electing a President is one of the most important responsibilities we have as citizens of the United States," says Plauche'.

"Yet only a minority of citizens vote in a Presidential election and fewer still participate in the campaign process." To encourage citizens to become part of that process, the headquarters library in Bay St. Louis will have a display on the CNN series which will include books on government and a recommended reading list. The reading lists will also be available at all branch libraries.

The display and lists will be available until the end of October. For more information, contact any branch of the Hancock County Library System.

Gulfview students honored at fishing rodeo

Three Gulfview Elementary students were recognized at the recent seventh annual

Very Special Fishing Rodeo. Crystal Dover was named Queen Fisherette of the event, while Time Fuller received an award for Most Fish Caught (23) and Remelton Chiassen for BRM Release Program (a 16½ -inch redfish).

Bay Catholic's 800 Club offers weekly cash prizes

Special to the Echo Giving money away has proved profitable for the Bay Catholic Elementary PTO, whose fundraising 800 Club makes it a weekly event.

"We give away $800 per month with our 800 Club drawings," explained Margaret Adam, PTO president. With a $50 membership, ticket holders are entered in 52 weekly drawings, she added, with cash prizes of $500 the first Monday of each month, and $100 each other Monday.

The first drawing of the 1992-93 year is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 5 when $500 will be awarded an 800 Club member.

"Thanks to the participation of Bay Catholic parents, as well as members of our community, this sole fundraiser was quite successful last year," com-mented Adam. "It's also more appealing when you realize that its success means you won't be asking people to buy anything else during the year.

Winners of the drawings are still eligible for all subsequent drawings as well, said Adam. One 800 Club member won twice last year, she said.

Winners' names are published weekly in Our Lady of the Gulf Church's Sunday bulletin.

Having on ongoing fundraiser all year also adds some interest among ticket holders, added Adam, since there is a winner every week.

Membership information is available from Bay Catholic (467-5158) or Adam (467-0792).
